

AUTODESK Fusion 360 Manage with Upchain

Manufacturing today demands a product development solution that centralizes data and processes. Using Fusion 360 Manage with Upchain increases collaboration to lower costs, reduce product errors, and accelerate time to market. Connect your people and processes to your product lifecycle to do more with your data and your day.

Why do I need Fusion 360 Manage with Upchain?

The combination of the two products gives you the flexibility to start with engineering data and BOM management and expand into process management, extending beyond engineering and centralizing your product related processes.

Which version is right for me?

From designers to reviewers and even procurement and service teams, we have options to fit everyone's needs. Check out the breakdown on the next page and reach out to discuss your specific requirements.

Access the data you need

Powerful CAD and business tool integrations and an open API bring together all your product data.

Connect your teams

Collaborate in cloud from wherever you are and loop in all your stakeholders across internal and external teams.

Control your processes

Easily configure workflows to fit your processes with a simple drag and drop builder, no coding required.
